

Demolition of Chuchepati camp in Kathmandu by Nepal Police on 14th March 2017.

Residents of Chuchepati camp collect their belongings after demolition of the camp on 14th March 2017.

Kamala (next slides) is originally from Nijgadh, Bara district but had been residing in Kathmandu, in the area around Chuchepati, since before the earthquake. Since the earthquake she has been living in this shelter camp. She used to polish marbles before the earthquake. There's no market now, so she sells green vegetables instead. She was out collecting the vegetables when the bulldozers came to demolish her shelter. Here she is seen trying to collect her belongings. Now, she plans to stay with her daughter and son-in-law in their small rented room nearby.

Kamala, Chuchepati

Kamala, Chuchepati

Kamala, Chuchepati

Mugu Arsi is originally from Rukum. She came to Kathmandu to stay with her daughter after the earthquake. Her son-in-law has been selling tea on the streets and that is the family's only source of income. They are going to stay in a small store room until they find a room.

Mugu Arsi, Chuchepati

Mugu Arsi, Chuchepati

Gita Maya Raut is originally from Okhaldhunga but has been residing in a rented room in Kathmandu since before the earthquake. She has been living in a tent shelter at Chuchepati since the earthquake. Her family of six has a tiny rented room where they had kept their belongings. The family's only earner is her eldest son; he does not earn enough to support them. Now, without another option they plan to stay in that single room.

Gita Maya Raut, Chuchepati

