The peoples are concerned about the policies of reconstruction process and the process of re-evaluation of the earthquake victim cards. They said that the card was distributed fairly with the team of five members (ward secretary, an engineer, an officer, a social mobilize and an administrative assistant) in this area. The peoples are concerned about the process of grant distribution.

6.2. Urban issues on the reconstruction process

- Demarcation of the culturally and historically important settlement. The people are confused in the demarcating the culturally and historically remarkable settlements.
- The existing building by-law is impractical for the reconstruction of dense traditional settlements.
- The land ownership problem in the traditional settlement. People in the traditional settlement do not have land ownership.
- The local government agencies lack the information (confused) about the reconstruction policies. They are still confused about the grant and the process of loan for reconstruction.
- The grant is not enough for the reconstruction of housing. People are confused whether they can invest their own money or not.
- A single house is used by the multiple families and people are expecting the grant as per the number of families living in a house.
- The people are curious about the time and process of re-evaluation of the earthquake victim cards. Previously, the card was distributed with the team of five members (ward secretary, an engineer, an officer, a social mobilize and an administrative assistant) as per the guidelines from district administrative office in this area.
- The 600 ropanis land in Godamchaur belongs to the Pashupati Guthi. People are living here since ages and they lack the land ownership. The people living in this area are concerned about the intervention of government in this type of land.
- People are curious about the reconstruction process for the squatters. The people living in the public houses lost their house in the earthquake and they don't possess other land and house. People are willing to know about the government intervention for these sorts of peoples.
