Outline details of findings of the first phase of geo-hazard risk assessments

NRA has released outline details of findings of the first phase of geo-hazard risk assessments which are

- The preliminary survey immediate after earthquake by Department of Mine and Geology concluded that more than 400 high risk settlements need to be resettled. But, NRA latest detail field survey showed that there is no such terrible situation as the preliminary survey of Department of Mine and Geology showed. As per the report by NRA, only 21 high risk resettlement required but few houses are looked to be resettled which are not more than 1000 in total.
- If there are few houses to be resettled, they will be resettled around the same place giving money for buying the land but if there are more houses, they will be resettled finding new suitable place of resettlement.
- Now that the reports have been finalised and approved by the NRA, they will commence their formal decision making process and commence implementation. Redeployment of a number of teams to the field to continue with the remaining inspections commenced in the second week of February. Based on the current rate of progress it is anticipated that the survey will be completed and reports submitted by May 2017.
