Personal remittances, received (% of GDP)

Personal remittances comprise personal transfers and compensation of employees. Personal transfers consist of all current transfers in cash or in kind made or received by resident households to or from nonresident households. Compensation of employees refers to the income of border, seasonal, and other short-term workers who are employed in an economy where they are not resident and of residents employed by nonresident entities.

Our World in Data have published an interactive map visualising data on personal remittances received as a % of GDP globally. Nepal, where remittances were 29.68% of GDP in 2016, is only surpassed by Liberia (30.56% of GDP) and Kyrgyzstan (30.48% of GDP). HRRP are working with relevant partners to try to understand the links between migration and remittances and the post-earthquake housing reconstruction.
